Kirloskar unveils green generators

A launch ceremony of Kirloskar Green generators, from 20kva to 625kva, was held by Mohammed Hassan Al Mahroos, under the patronage of Industry and Commerce Minister Dr Hassan Fakhro.

The ceremony took place yesterday at Al Mahroos's Kirloskar showroom in Khamis.

It was attended by Indian Ambassador Mohan Kumar, Industry and Commerce Ministry undersecretaries and top officials from the Electricity and Water Authority and government and private sector organisations.

Also present were Kirloskar Oil Engines Limited senior officials headed by executive director R R Deshpande, who travelled from India, and other officials from Kirloskar Middle East FZE.

Kirloskar Green generators are famous for their performance and reliability, being silent and environment friendly. They are accredited with international quality standards and certifications.

The generators are powered by in-house Kirloskar engines, which ensure a value-added advantage and come with an assurance of quality, after-sales service and spare parts.

Kirloskar Oil Engines Limited, India, is one of the well-established engineering companies with more than 100 years experience in manufacturing generators ranging from 2.5kva to 6,300kva.

It also has a joint venture with Toyota Motors to produce Toyota cars for the Indian market.

With the launch of Kirloskar Green generators, Al Mahroos and Kirloskar will ensure valuable contribution to Bahrain's economy by providing quality and professional solution to the increased power requirements for various sectors and industries.

Berlitz offers wide range of courses

Today's job market is becoming more and more competitive, that's why Berlitz Bahrain is offering a wide range of language, communication and soft skill courses.

The main objective is to further improve skills that help people become more successful.

The Language and Training Centre has recently launched a series of Communication Soft Skills courses after testing and using the programme in more than 15 countries.

Soft Skills courses include body language, team building, leadership, motivation, business, time management, work ethics, effective communication, communication and negotiations, as well as meetings and presentations.

Trainees learn how to detect and interpret the use of non-verbal communication like body language in a working or social environment.

A non-verbal communication seminar has been on a road show in the last few months, visiting societies such as Bahrain Institute of Banking and Finance, Bahrain Society for Training and Development and Bahrain Society of Engineers.

Berlitz always takes care of their client, that's why they also have a language maintenance programme for life.

This initiative is directed at clients who have completed five levels in any language with a minimum passing grade of 75 per cent.

All they need to do is go to the centre every three weeks for a language check-up.

An instructor will assess them and if the client's level has fallen below level five, the students will be provided with lessons to bring them back to a level five standard at no additional cost.

Boost English skills with British Council

Anyone planning to study or train abroad, is applying to an institution and needs to prove their level of English or simply raise their standard of English, the British Council is the right place for them.

Through English courses and a variety of exams services people can improve both their English and academic levels and can boost their careers.

The Teaching Centre in Bahrain delivers English courses to more than 1,300 young learners, seven to 18-year-olds, and 500 adults each term.

Learners come twice a week on Sundays and Tuesdays or Mondays and Wednesdays, or once a week on Saturdays.

Many of the students continue studying with them throughout the year to develop their language skills. The council's premises provide a comfortable learning environment and all their classrooms have top of the range interactive whiteboards.

"We are proud of our commitment to teacher development and our teachers receive ongoing training through our in-house programme and external qualifications," said council officials.

"They complete specialist training in teaching young learners and using interactive whiteboards and many of them complete advanced EFL qualifications.

"Take advantage of our experience in teaching English and come and join us next term.

"We can also help you to sit for the International English Language Testing System (IELTS) examination that is recognised worldwide."

IELTS has two versions – academic and general, and students can choose the version that best meets their needs.

Students can choose exam dates and register for the academic or general module by visiting the link and registering online at www.britishcouncil.org/me.

The system sends the registration confirmation by e-mail. Students are then required to pay the local examination fees within five days of registration at the British Council's office.

To promote the IELTS online registration system, the council is offering free access to a 30-hour online course. Follow this link and register online at <https://ielts.britishcouncil.org/Bahrain>.

IELTS is the world's most popular English language test of its kind with 6,000 institutions worldwide and more than 3,000 US institutions and programmes accepting IELTS scores.

British Council Bahrain has responded to the growing trend of distance education by providing examinations services to Bahrain-based professionals and students who would like to sit for their exams in Bahrain.

Professional bodies and UK universities and colleges have regularly used the British Council examinations services. SCHOOL and ESOL (English for Speakers of Other Languages) exams are also administered by British Council Bahrain.
